Good to see you here...must dash though, I've got work and shopping to do, not to mention that I'm trying to lose a pound or two so I fit neatly into the bridesmaid dress for my best friends wedding!

Have you met Connor, my flatmate. He's scatty but very sweet, he's having some fantasy at the minute about Ashlea...I suppose you know her, everyone does for one reason or another! I don't know why he's wasting his time with her she'll be on to someone else in a few days!

I'm a bridesmaid for my best friend! Fitted into the dress ok - phew! I knew Ashlea was coming but she looks like a twig - honestly girls like her annoy me intensely!

You wouldn't believe it but Connor is still mooning around after Ashlea - she's disappeared back to Uni thankfully. He'll soon forget about her with any luck, she's far too young for him, she's still only 19 for goodness sake! He needs someone more mature and sensible.

All this Ashlea and Connor stuff is driving me mad, he talks about her non-stop. My best pal has told me to stop bothering about it and says she doesn't know what Ashlea sees in him anyway!

Well they've gone off camping...
Camping?!?
I ask you can you really see Ashlea living in a tent? God knows how she'll survive without all her beauty products.
Well I'm going to a party, you won't get me in a tent!

The credit crunch has hit work, my boss has become a nightmare, anyone would think I had caused it the way she goes on at me and now Connor is talking about getting a new place...I suppose that means he wants me out so that Ashlea can move in. My parents and my friend met them at the golf club dinner and apparently they were all loved up - I think the whole world was at that event except me - I'm totally stressed out!
