

Voronwë

Voronwë son of Aranwë, a Noldo, but his mother was of the Sindarin Elves of the Falas, and kinswoman of Círdan. Voronwë called himself "of the House of Fingolfin", which in this case likely means a follower of that house, rather than a relationship of blood, although some have proposed his descent from Irimë, sister of Fingolfin.

Voronwë was among those Gondolindrim who were sent by Túrgon to the Bay of Balar after the Battle of Unnumbered Tears. Their errand was to seek the help of Círdan in shipbuilding so that they would be able to reach Valinor and deliver the Elves' prayer for aid to the Lords of the West.

He eventually becomes the guide of Tuor and leads him to his destiny in the hidden City of Gondolin.

